PDI Security Solutions

A secure and stable network is essential to the health of your business and your customers' experience with your brand. But without firsthand knowledge of security best practices and in-house expertise, your business is at risk, especially as connected devices and cloud-based applications rise in popularity.

Our team is here to take that burden of managing IT security off your plate. Our Managed Detection and Response (MDR) and Extended Detection and Response (XDR) capabilities combine with secure networking technologies to give your business the protection it needs to manage cyberthreats and secure your highly connected IT environment.

Robust security solutions

Our offerings are purpose-built to unify control with a robust security platform, network security appliance, and managed security services. We help multi-site operators, convenience store retailers, and small to medium-sized businesses connect, secure, monitor, and scale highly distributed environments while protecting their critical data and assets.

These solutions give you peace of mind that your business is protected, agile, and compliant across all locations and applications. We're here to support your network and security needs and protect your IT environment from threats and vulnerabilities.
